on the FIELD

With March approaching, we can (almost) see the winter over while welcoming the new spring. Days get longer, air gets warmer, trees cover themselves with fresh leaves and the first flowers gently peek up. This type of climate really makes us to get out and enjoy the open air and, even if many of us are going through another lockdown, it is a good idea to make the most of every occasion to have a walk in Nature. To completely profit of the situation what would be harmonizing with surroundings. Brown and beige color palette, cream white and a touch of orange and yellow, which light up the spirit. They remind us that nothing is made of several elements together, nothing are not to be underestimated, because they change the perception we have of ourselves.
